Ar. Sayed Ahmed

Lecturer, Department of Architecture, Bangladesh University, Bangladesh

ABSTRACT

Mitchell Foucault was a famous philosophy legend who took interest in architecture because of his theory of power. Architecture can be a tool to describe the controlling ability of his panoptic theory as well. The complexity of human behavior is directly affecting the complexity of architectural function that we used to maintain and some got extinct and even in the future more others will face extinction which will fail to cope with. This lecture was optimistic and indicative to decide crucial factors of human advent so far.
