ABSTRACT

The present article is about the feasibility of women in the present age and Islam. According to Qur'anic teachings & Prophet (PBUH) guidance women have equal status like men in Islam. There is no difference between rights and rewards of male and female but men and women have separate personalities. Their physical and mental needs are different. Their emotional satisfaction needs have different scales. A woman has been created to perform the responsibilities in the household. She can play vital roles as a daughter, sister, wife and mother respectively. She has a share in legacy. She is free from any financial earning and responsibilities. She is the owner of her own money, jewelry and property. She can perform the responsibility of earning after following some limitations and obligations. She can become a politician but not allowed to be a ruler. Islam emphasized that it is the utmost duty of the society to create and provide chances for the development of women.
